

This is not good for the internet in general. By making it easier for law enforcement to snoop, it will make it easier for dishonest people to take advantage of honest people. They can get the information they need with the proper security tools. There is no reason to make the internet less secure for law enforcement. Other countries will move ahead in security, we will take a step back, not good national security at all. Don't do this to technology.